DROPPED COURSES

The University Senate agreed in 1998 that the report of the Committee on Courses should include those permanently numbered courses that are being dropped because (1) they have not been taught for three or more years, and (2) the department can provide no reasonable explanation why they have not been taught or whether they will be in the future. The faculty requires that general-education-satisfying courses be offered each year. Other courses should be offered at least every other year to avoid misrepresentation of course offerings to prospective students, and to ensure that required courses are readily available to current students.

Courses may be reinstated within a period of three years, conditional upon the following: (1) there has been no change made to the course, (2) the department provides the term the course will be taught, (3) the department provides the name of the faculty member who will be responsible for teaching, and (4) the department provides a course syllabus with information regarding undergraduate graduate differential for demonstrating mastery if the course is numbered 4XX/5XX.

These courses will only appear in the spring curriculum report and will be provided by the Registrar’s Office

Academic Policies

- The Graduate Council has approved the following revised language for master’s degrees: There is no university-wide language requirement for master’s degrees. Departments and programs have the option of requiring or not requiring one or more languages other than English (LOTE). If one or more languages are required, the degree-granting unit is responsible for monitoring and enforcing that requirement.

- On April 13, 2022, as per the Academic Continuity Plan, the Academic Council declared an end to the significant academic disruption related to the COVID-19 pandemic. As such, the Spring 2022 Academic Council Expectations for faculty will expire at the end of the Spring 2022 term and the university will return to normal academic policies and expectations for faculty teaching courses.

- Requiring Courses with Generic Course Numbers. The revised policy is as follows:

  o A limited number of credits with the generic course numbers x01, x04, x05, and x06 may be approved by Graduate Council to be included in the required credits for a graduate program if the following conditions are met:

    1. The structure and content of the generic course have been documented, reviewed, and approved by the appropriate faculty body at the academic department.
and/or College level (for example, curriculum committee or full faculty depending on governance structure).

- 2. Generic courses that will be required for the graduate program may be approved only when the structure and content of the generic course meets the definition listed in the University catalog and the guidance articulated by the Division of Graduate Studies.

- 3. a) If the generic course always achieves the same outcomes within the program requirements, these outcomes need to be articulated in the graduate program description in CourseLeaf and submitted to the Graduate Council.

- 3. b) If the generic course does not always achieve the same outcomes, the process by which the academic department and/or College oversees and reviews the appropriateness of each offering of the generic course to determine whether it satisfies the program requirements must be articulated and documented in the graduate program description in CourseLeaf.

- Incomplete Policy. The following revised Incomplete policy is effective Fall 2022 pending Senate approval on June 1, 2022.

Proposed New Policy

What is an Incomplete and When is it Appropriate?

A grade of "I" (Incomplete) represents an agreement between an instructor and a student to extend the deadline for coursework completion. Incompletes shall be granted when the instructor determines that the student meets all the following criteria. The student:

- has been making satisfactory progress on coursework as determined by the criteria in the syllabus;
- has been active in the course;
- is unable to complete a portion of the course requirements due to extenuating circumstances beyond their control that occurred after the last day to drop a class (End of Week 7 of Fall/Winter/Spring terms; variable dates for summer courses);
- is able to independently complete the remaining requirements without attending additional classes beyond the term or receiving additional instruction; and
- requests an Incomplete by the published deadline

If additional class attendance or instruction is required to complete course requirements, the instructor shall not issue an Incomplete.

Lack of engagement, poor performance, or a desire to repeat the course are unacceptable reasons for issuance of the “I” mark.

Instructors shall provide to the student access to course materials necessary to complete the missing work. Access to the Canvas site for the course can be requested here (LINK) if needed.

Incomplete grades can only be granted by instructors and instructors are under no obligation to grant students an incomplete grade if in their judgment the criteria stated above are not met.

An Incomplete shall not be recorded by the instructor unless a contract between the instructor and student has been completed and filed appropriately.

General Process for Incompletes (operational details to be determined in coordination between the Office of the Provost and the University Registrar)
Incompletes are initiated by the student (though instructors can suggest an Incomplete as an option when warranted).

Student contacts instructor and requests Incomplete by 5pm on the last day of finals week.

If the instructor agrees that the student meets the criteria, the instructor and the student complete a contract outlining how the Incomplete can be resolved, the deadline for resolving the incomplete, and the default grade should the student not complete the agreed upon work. The default grade is the grade the student would receive according to the syllabus grade guidelines with no credit for the missing work.

This form is filed.

The missing work indicated on the form must be completed by the earlier of:
- Grading deadline of the term the student applied to graduate, or
- Deadline stated on the Incomplete Request Form *can be extended at the discretion of the instructor, or
- The day grades are due one academic year later

For students with Incomplete contracts, the instructor will record the “grade” in Duckweb that indicates an Incomplete has been agreed to. Currently, that is an “I”. The instructor will also record, in Duckweb and/or the contract form, the grade the student would have received in the course if they received no credit for the missing work. This becomes the default grade that replaces the incomplete mark should the student not complete the work outlined in the contract by the appropriate deadline (either the grading deadline of the term the student applied to graduate or the day grades are due one academic year later).

If the student completes the work defined in the contract by the agreed upon date, the instructor calculates and updates the grade via the grade change process.

This policy applies to all undergraduate and graduate courses.

NOTE TO BE COMMUNICATED TO STUDENTS: The Incomplete mark will roll to the default grade even if an incomplete contract is in place if the student has applied to graduate. Degree application status is not directory information; instructors do not have a way to verify.

NOTE TO BE COMMUNICATED TO STUDENTS: A mark of I/F will not convert to N as part of First Term Grade Forgiveness. It will instead convert to an F.

- Course Attendance and Engagement Policy. The following new Course Attendance and Engagement Policy is effective Fall 2022 pending Senate approval on June 1, 2022.

Proposed Undergraduate Course Attendance or Engagement Policy

1. Every undergraduate course syllabus shall outline any requirements for attendance, how absences affect grades and the conditions under which coursework can be made up. For courses that have engagement requirements rather than attendance requirements, such as ASYNC WEB or performance-based courses, syllabi shall outline requirements for engagement, what constitutes lack of engagement and if and how missed engagement opportunities can be made up. Instructors have discretion to determine how many absences or how much “lack of engagement” is reasonable for their course before grades are impacted and how makeup assignments count toward grades (e.g. partial or full credit?). Instructors are encouraged to develop attendance or engagement policies that give students some room for unexpected events over the course of the term.
2. Every course syllabus shall outline how to handle work turned in after deadlines. Faculty have discretion to determine which, if any, assignments can be turned in late or made up, and what the consequences are as pedagogically appropriate for the course.

3. University policies governing course absences supersede course-level policies. The university policies on religious accommodation and accessible education are two to be particularly aware of. These both require students to provide documentation that the student may miss class under these policies. Other university policies that touch on attendance are listed later in this document.

4. University-sponsored events are considered verifiable, legitimate reasons for participating students to miss class. Most often this is associated with students involved in athletic events but not always. When students miss class for university-sponsored activities, faculty are strongly encouraged to make pedagogically sound and justifiable modifications that will enable the students to be successful in the course where possible. However, this request has limits and conditions:
   o Students who participate in university-sponsored activities that might cause them to miss class are responsible for providing documentation signed by a university employee verifying their participation in the activity and listing the dates that they might miss class. This should be done during week one of the term. Instructors can then determine if appropriate modifications can be made to coursework or due dates
   o In classes with substantial class participation, project or lab work, appropriate modifications may not be possible. In those instances, the student should be informed that the course is not a good fit in a term with significant absences. Under no circumstances should the instructor offer a modification that is pedagogically unsound or that would be unavailable to other students.

5. Except for the legitimate and verifiable reasons for absences referenced in 3 and 4, instructors shall not ask for reasons for absences and shall not distinguish between “excused” and “unexcused” absences since there is no equitable way to confirm the veracity of student-provided reasons or documentation outside the university context. Course absence policies should be reason-neutral (NEED EXAMPLES). Faculty are not required to provide make-up opportunities, but make-up opportunities need to be available to all students equally.

6. Except for the documentation referenced in 3 and 4, instructors shall not ask students for documentation for absences.

7. Course attendance and engagement policies are meant to address common student absences or late work over the course of a term. Instructors should be aware of how to advise students who experience extraordinary circumstances that cause extensive absences or late work. For instance:
   o Dean of Students “Emergency Academic Notification” – Instructors can advise students to engage in the Dean of Students Emergency Academic Notification process. This provides the student assistance in notifying instructors and enlisting their help with courses.
   o Withdrawal and Grade Change dates and processes – In some cases, the best option is for a student to withdraw or change their grading option while they manage their situation. See this advising page on options for students in terms of withdrawal and grade changes.
- Incomplete – If an unexpected situation happens toward the end of the term, an Incomplete may be appropriate.
- Student Petitions – students also have petition options after the term if they were unable to make changes during the term due to their situation.
